WARDROBE TYPES & PLANNING GUIDE

Design types

- Hinged wardrobe — shutters open outward on hinges.
- Sliding wardrobe — shutters move on tracks and save front clearance.
- Built-in / floor-to-ceiling wardrobe — custom fitted to the wall, often up to the ceiling.
- L-shaped / corner wardrobe — uses two adjoining walls.
- Walk-in wardrobe — a dedicated storage and dressing area.
- Wardrobe with dressing unit — combines storage with mirror and drawers.

Shutter & finish options

- Glass shutters — clear, tinted or frosted panels.
- Mirror shutters — full-length or partial mirror integration.
- Fluted / designer shutters — grooved panels and decorative accents.
- Laminate finish — matte, gloss, wood-grain or two-colour combinations.

Common layouts

- 2-door, 3-door and 4-door wardrobes.
- Loft wardrobe for overhead storage.
- Open wardrobe with visible shelves and hanging rails.
- Modular wardrobe with planned shelves, drawers, hanging space and accessories.

Planning checklist

- Measure wall width, height and available depth.
- Check door swing, bed clearance, windows, switches and sockets.
- Plan hanging space, shelves, drawers, shoe storage and loft needs.
- Select hinged or sliding shutters according to clearance and budget.
- Coordinate finishes, handles and hardware with the bedroom design.
- Confirm final measurements and installation details before fabrication.

Suggested premium combination: Floor-to-ceiling wardrobe, matte laminate, fluted accent panel and overhead loft. Final design should suit the room dimensions, storage needs and budget.
